

Attention all medical students...

Skillshare International is offering a one-day pre-electives training course for medical students heading to a developing country for their electives.

Why Skillshare International?

2005 marks our fourth year of hosting training courses specifically designed for medical students. Our staff are used to preparing development workers for their overseas placements and will help you to explore the key issues that may arise before, during or after your elective.

In the past, medical students have spent up to six weeks in countries as diverse as Mozambique, East Timor, Mauritius, Nigeria, India and Ghana.

On the day we will:

- Look at your motivation and expectations for working with an institution from a developing country.
- Discuss working in another culture: coping with cultural differences, and dealing with different attitudes to health and healthcare provision.
- Help you to manage expectations – positive and negative – which your developing world colleagues will have of UK health professionals.
- Discuss your return: integrating your experience into your life and work in the UK.
- Deal with the practical issues such as information sharing.

If you wish to be involved, please contact Dr. Raúl Pardiñaz-Solis.
